Canadian Institute's 7th Annual Conference on First Nations Housing & Infrastructure West returns for another exciting year this April 30 – May 1, 2025, in Vancouver!

By fostering meaningful exchanges, the forum strives to generate innovative, culturally aligned solutions to improve housing, water, energy, and infrastructure development across Indigenous lands in Western Canada.

This year's key topics include:

- Climate-Resilient Housing and Infrastructure Solutions
- Innovative Funding and Financial Partnerships
- Land Rights and Policy Updates
- Community-Led Design and Development
- Youth Engagement and Workforce Development

CI's Forum addresses critical housing and infrastructure challenges, faced by Indigenous communities in Western Canada. This event serves as a hub for dialogue, collaboration, and solution-building, uniting First Nations, government agencies, and industry leaders in energy, construction, and design. Focusing on infrastructure projects in Indigenous communities, our experts take a deep look at the federal budget's funding allocation, identify financing opportunities, and address the pressing challenges facing the housing sector in First Peoples territories.
