

Aboriginal Housing Management Association
Over 25 years of Indigenous housing expertise.

Fort St. John Native Housing Society Shares Tenant Success Stories – Including an NHL Draft!

Fort St. John Native Housing Society shared some wonderful success stories that have come out of their Urban Native Program. “We pride ourselves in not just being housing, but creating opportunities for the tenants and giving them the tools to increase the betterment of themselves, in a self-appreciating manner. The tenants have been very open and willing to work hard to improve their own lives as well as being role models to their children.” Fort St. John Society has helped tenants find employment, transfer off of social services, upgrade their education, facilitate access to treatment services, facilitate life skills workshops, and much more.

One tenant shared that her son, Cayden Lindstrom, was the fourth overall pick in this year’s NHL draft! She stated that the “rent reduction and extra help she received from Fort St. John Native Housing definitely assisted in her son being given the opportunity and affordability to attend hockey school and all the travel involved in being a hockey mom! It also helped so she could go back to school herself.”